

ABSTRACT

A client terminal acquires information associated with expendables of a device, and accesses a service providing server on the basis of a URL generated by a 5 agent server. The client terminal receives page information that provides a service according to the information associated with the expendables of the device from the service providing server, and requests a service on the basis of the page information that 10 provides a service.